Ganfield Attacks "On Fence" Policy
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Manitowish, Wis., July 27.—A man wants to be the mouth of the socialist party, he ought to say so; and when he wants to be a republican, he ought to say so, especially if he is seeking office. It is embarrassing to be confronted with a candidate who wants to be both a socialist and a republican, but won't say which he is either one," said William A. Ganfield, opponent of U. S. Senator Robert M. La Follette in the coming election.

Ganfield, during the day, visited Cleveland, Two Rivers, Mishicot, Maribel and Francis Creek. At Mishicot, he said: "I have three principles in my creed for capital labor: That the working man shall have a generous wage, that capital shall have a fair return and that the public shall not be asked to pay more than a reasonable price for commodities. If a business is able to meet those conditions, but does not do so, the government should compel it to."

APPLES PLENTIFUL, EXCELLENT, CHEAP

Best Season in Years Seen; Pre-War Prices Back on Home-grown.

What promises to be the best apple season in many years is now beginning. There is already a great supply of apples in local stores and the large quantities on all the trees this year will make it useless and unprofitable for merchants to ship any in. The home-grown supply will be enough to supply the local demand this year, however large it is predicted.

The apples in the market at this early date are all home-grown and are excellent specimens. Local apple lovers will not have to pay enormous prices for red juicy apples this year. It is predicted that the prices on the very best of the fruit will be as low or lower than that asked last year and preceding years for the poorest varieties.

Low Opening Price
The price on these first home-grown shipments is but 2 cents a pound, lower than any opening price for many years back. Last year red apples were obtainable at this price, and those selling for 10 cents a pound were of poor variety. About four weeks ago, when the apples were considered a moderate price. And this 2 cents a pound is for the best fancy eating apples—Duchess, Astrakhan, and Transparent.

Other fruits are falling in line with the apples and the prices on all are much lower than last year. Plums are of several varieties and prices—15, 18 and 20 cents a dozen, 60 and 75 cents a basket. Blueberries are still seen for 25 cents a quart and blackberries are 20 cents, while red and black raspberries are gone for the season. They had a good season and were moderate in price. A great many were canned.

Peaches Numerous
Peaches are making their initial appearance here. Seedling grapes have been in and selling for 40 cents a pound. These new green grapes are the large ones however, and sell for 25 cents in places.

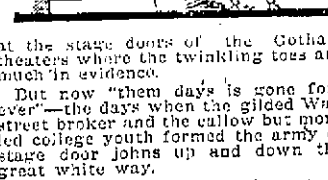

The California cherries are the only variety seen here now. Some stores put up attractive little boxes of them selling for 25 cents.

Sugar Price Is Up

GONE ARE THE DAYS WHEN BUDS COPPED CHORUS BEAUTIES

By JACK HEIL

Time was when the love sick swains said it was "lovers" and this was true not only on Main street but also at the stage doors of the Gotham theaters where the twinkling toes are much in evidence.

But now "them days" is gone forever—the days when the gilded wait street broker and the callow but monied college youth formed the army of staid door jones up and down the street.

The days when a great bouquet of American beauties and a tender note informed the chosen lady of the choice she had an admirer would be delighted to dine her on lobster or anything else but fluttering little heart might desire.

Yessir, times have changed. And so have the stage door jones. Rose and Rose just like the gossamer of last winter.

Instead the invitation to an after theater party now is accompanied by a quart of gin, port, or scotch, merely as an evidence of good faith or a good supply.

Today the doorman gives Miss Meringue a carefully wrapped package and confidentially informs her that a "gent" is outside with a car full of the same and better stuff.

"The bootleggers or as they style themselves, liquor brokers, have put the college boys that used to drive up to drink doorman also the riatto say. "And they're more popular too."

JANESVILLE UNITS TO CAMP MONDAY

Tanks and Cavalry are Primed to Take Drill Honors at Douglas.

One hundred and sixty officers and men of Janesville's two national guard companies will leave Monday for Camp Douglas, for the annual training period. For many of them it will serve as a vacation, although the training which the men undergo is real work.

The cavalry will be in command of Capt. Gilman H. Stordick and the tanks in charge of Capt. Ralph Harmon. For two weeks the men have been undergoing special training to camp in the state capital. The Janesville Tanks have ambitions of winning the banner for the best drilled outfit at the encampment. It was noted out last year by a slight margin by Stoughton.

The transportation orders call for 66 men and two officers of cavalry, and 30 men and 3 officers in the tank corps. The train will leave Janesville at 7:15 a. m. over the St. Paul road.

On the same train will be companies from Oshkosh, Edgerton, Stoughton and Mauston. Other cities will also be represented at the same period of encampment will be these from Jefferson, Lake Geneva and Platteville.

RECORD BREAKING HORSE MADE DEBUT HERE 3 YEARS AGO

Sir Roche, the Randall stables of Chicago, which broke the world's record for the mile in the free for all race of the Grand Circuit meeting in Columbus Thursday, made his debut in Janesville three years ago. The horse was owned by Sam Wallace of Beloit at that time. Wallace sold him to Mr. Randall for $2,000 with a stipulation that if he made the mile in 2:05 he would get an additional $500. Sir Roche made the time the next year.

Kiwanis Checks for Local Troops

Checks for $150 each were presented to Capt. Stordick and Harmon, of the cavalry and tank companies of the Wisconsin national guard by President Oscar Nelson, at the weekly Kiwanis club luncheon Thursday as a donation to their mess funds. Capt. Harmon said that he hoped that action would crystallize this fall which would result in the creation of a new armory for both companies and which would be of great benefit for the community.

Plans for a home in the near future when the Kiwanians will entertain the Rotary club was placed in the hands of a committee composed of Rex Jacobs, Walter Kohlen, Floyd Bunnison, Howard Green and Fred Ehrlander.

The birthday of William O'Connell was celebrated in honor of his new son, City Clerk Irvin J. Sartell was

Beloit Puts Out Janesville in Great Golfing Finish

Copyright 1920 by Geo. McManus

BELOIT CAPTURES IN EXCITING END OF TWO DAY MEET

Beloit.—After making an unexpected fine showing in the first day's play, Janesville was just barely defeated by Beloit in the Southern Wisconsin-Northern Illinois golf meet here Thursday. Beloit won with 22 down on a bogey. Janesville was 26 down. Twelve clubs competed. The winners got a permanent silver cup and gold medals. Janesville men were given silver medals. A gallery of 250 saw the play.

Beloit led by 14 as the last 18 holes were started. S. H. Edwards and A. Schaller of Janesville, were paired in a foursome with two Beloit men as the last nine were started. They put up a great battle and halved with the Gateway city. The result of the match then depended upon Rich McCoy, E. P. Wilcox, and Henry Carpenter, the last playing far better than on the previous day while McCoy and Wilcox were off their game. At that Carpenter held the match in his sway but lost out on bad puts after some remarkable drives.

Medal prize was won by E. W. Dietz, Rockford, with 22. He was presented with a silver cup set. Yessie, of Woodstock, was second with 27. A. L. Miller, Waukegan, was third with 30. Schaller, Edwards and Dave Foster, the last of Beloit, were tied for third with 32 each. A special prize of a silver knife and fork was given William Allen, Rockford, for his score of 33, the best for a fifth man.

ARE FISH BITING? LEMKE SAYS, YES

Lemke, 608 South Academy street, says the fish are biting. He will show you a thumb that bears evidence. After a great fight with a 2 1/2-inch pickerel, Lemke finally landed him. Mr. Fish had taken a healthy hold on the hook, and when Lemke tried to get the pickerel, the fish closed tightly on the hook. Lemke says he had to take his pole to pry the pickerel loose.

THERE is a possibility that certain individuals of Milwaukee will endeavor to take over the ring and other equipment of the Janesville (Elks) Athletic club and run bouts in the rink here next fall and winter. Operatives have already been on the ground looking it over. They are said to believe that the Power city is a logical center for such encounters.

SHOULD such a thing happen and the talked of roller polo games and professional basketball be staged, the rink will be a busy place. There is an opportunity to make the big shed, a drawing power for this entire territory if the public is given a return for its money.

TWO unique prizes will be given in the southern Wisconsin horse shoe pitching tournament to be held here in conjunction with the Janesville fair. Two blacksmiths have announced they will each setup a horse with a complete new set of shoes. Just what place will be given the prize has not yet been determined. Some farmer is going to be lucky.

HERE'S one for the book. The referee of a boxing contest at Grand Junction, Col., was forced to use both hands in counting out the two principals in a bout Wednesday. Jack Brown, trading punches with Walter Hutton, received a crack on the chin and just as he was going down completed the haymaker he directed at Hutton.

Leonard Retains Title by Shade—a Pale One

New York.—Benny Leonard's sell holds the world's lightweight boxing championship but he realized that Leonard, Philadelphia left-hander, is neither a "second rate" nor a "dub."

Champion in 1917, when he bowled over English Freddie Welch, Leonard walked out of the great pine bowl on Boyle's Thirty Acres Thursday night with the crown perched back on his head. Tandler put it there. Had the challenger the stamina to hold the lead he gained in the early rounds, he would have knocked it off.

Just Got There

Leonard won by the palest of shades. The bout went the full 12 rounds and under the law of New Jersey, there was official decision. Leonard had predicted that he would finish Tandler within seven rounds. In that period Leonard rushed aside blood that leaked from his brow, turned his head to one side, spat out a tooth and grunted at the champion.

The champion had the reserve strength to take the lead when Tandler faltered after boxing him all over the ring for four rounds. Leonard was visibly tired until this juncture. After the fourth Benny swept the cobwebs from his head with both hands.

The rally of the titleholder in the fifth, sixth and seventh rounds net-

The Wisconsin Bankers' association which organized the Banker-Farmer Exchange for the purpose of assisting farmers and breeders in disposing of their surplus livestock, are in position to direct buyers to good livestock. It was announced in The Bankers' farmer news bulletin issued by the association.

The plan of the exchange is that any farmer or breeder can give to his local bank the breed, number, age and price of the live stock he has for sale. This is mailed to the Banker-Farmer exchange at Madison, Wis., where it is classified and put in form for ready reference. In a similar manner the farmer who wants to buy stock can call at his bank and leave word as to what he wants.

Outside Demand.—We have a large demand from outside the state for dairy cattle in particular, the bulletin said, and added, "These buyers are referred to communities that have one or more carloads of surplus stock for sale. We get them in touch with the local bank or breeder, who has time to take the buyers from farm to farm, show the stock for sale and when purchased help assemble, test and load the stock that has been secured."

Listing blanks for purchased animals have also been prepared.

Prices are fixed by the farmer who wants to sell, and reflect the prevailing prices in the community. It was said, in selecting listings for the buyers the association looks for the community where the stock is most reasonably priced, provided the quality is satisfactory. The final price is settled upon when the buyer and seller get together.

Must Deal Honest.—When listing livestock, the farmer signs a statement on the listing blank that the animals are healthy, sound, except when otherwise stated, and that the cattle have been or will be tested for tuberculosis. With every transaction, the bulletin read, one or more banks beside the buyer and the exchange are "concerned," and, it stated, "if there is dissatisfaction in any case, all the parties know it. A breeder cannot afford to risk his standing with his bank by misrepresenting his stock. Only honorable breeders are expected to do business through the exchange. We let the farmer who have stock for sale know that we are holding to a high standard of quality. In buying our local lot our local men are careful to take buyers only to herds that are free from tuberculosis or contagious abortion."

The local banks make no charge for their service, it was said. To help defray the expenses of local live men, office postage, etc., a 5 per cent commission is charged on all sales made.

Increase Income by Culling the Flocks

Madison.—Net income has been increased three dollars a year for each White Leghorn hen in the University of Wisconsin flock. Careful culling, breeding to high-producing strains, and careful feeding have turned the trick.

In 1914 the average production of one strain was 112 eggs but by culling and breeding to sons of known high-producing hens the average has been raised to 185 eggs. This is an increase of 65 per cent, an added income of $3 a hen a year. The result is that no White Leghorns are kept for breeding at the University unless they lay at least 200 eggs during the first 12 months of laying.

Before a Dane county farmer near the Wisconsin bulletin on poultry culling he had 700 hens in his flock. Now he has 500. It costs him $2 less to feed them each day, and he gets just as many eggs as before.

The poultrymen at the University are advising farmers to go over the flock once a year to select the best hens and keep them for breeding purposes.

The University poultrymen regard every flock of hens as an egg factory. Like any other factory, they know that the flock can be given the best materials in the world to work on, and still fail to produce enough to pay for running the plant. Good feed in sufficient variety is necessary for egg production, but the ability to manufacture eggs from feed must be there first.

Many Are Adopting Herd Prefix Names

As a means of identifying the various Holstein breeding establishments throughout the United States and Canada, the Holstein-Friesian Association of America has adopted the idea of reserving herd prefix or farm names for the exclusive use of those Holstein owners registering their stock.

Wisconsin owners of the black and white breed are taking advantage of this opportunity with the result that there are more prefixes registered by Wisconsin breeders than by those of any other state and Wisconsin today is known as the farm name and herd prefix state of the union.

The farm name or herd prefix idea is a tradition inherited from the old world. In the old countries, the farm name is sold with the stock, with the produce, yes, even with the land, just as a trade name or other sign of quality is sold with the product which is the pride of the producer.

There are more than twenty thousand such names and prefixes registered on the books of the National Holstein Association. At this writing, and hundreds are added each month. In these days of heavy auto travel such means of identity as a neatly engraved sign bearing the name of the farm, the name and address of the owner, and the farm specialties and conspicuously posted at the farm yard entrance are repaying the operators many times in their advertising returns.

George W. Dodge, Avalon, Rock county Holstein breeder, has just recorded the farm name "Dodge-Hurst" and hereafter this prefix will be used in registering the pure-bred Holsteins raised by him.

Secretary Oldham of the Wisconsin Holstein Association with office at Madison will gladly assist any breeder in the state in the selection of and registration of such trade name or herd prefix as they may desire.

Seeking Shorthorn Association in Wis.

Madison.—The "reds, whites and blues" are going ahead. Long the home of some of America's greatest Shorthorn herds, Wisconsin is due to become the center of this great Shorthorn breed. Wisconsin breeders are entering upon a campaign to acquire more farmers in the leading grazing counties of the state with excellencies of Shorthorn cattle.

As the initial step in the campaign county organizations will be formed by the local breeders. They will be aided in this work by the cooperation of officials of the American and Wisconsin Shorthorn Breeders' associations, representatives of the Wisconsin Live Stock Breeders' Association and staff members of the College of Agriculture.

The goal set at a recent meeting of Wisconsin breeders is to have counties with going organizations within a year. Invitations are being issued to the breeders of St. Croix, Trempealeau, Jackson, Monroe, Richland, Dane, Columbia, and Green Lake counties. Following is a list of Wisconsin counties which have local Shorthorn breeders' associations and a list of the officers of these organizations: Burnett, Oscar A. Hill, secretary; Chippewa, P. D. Southworth; Crawford, G. H. DeVall; Grant, L. D. Eastman; Iowa, Junge; J. H. McDowell; LaCrosse, W. E. Spreiter; Pierce, P. N. Collins; Polk, Henry Petersen; Rock, J. J. McCann; Sauk, Frank Morley; Vernon, L. V. Eckhardt; Walworth, Leslie Foster; and Winnebago, Keel Roberts.

Protect the Farms from Fire Damages

The perished crops of grain and hay represent the toil of the farmer, his family and hired help. No careless act should jeopardize these food and feed products. The farmer's worst enemy is lightning, and the barn is a favorite mark. Occasionally a building, poorly rodded, is struck. This is no argument against the efficiency of lightning rod protection, when proper materials are used, installed according to the best modern practice, well grounded to permanent moisture, and kept in good repair.

When so installed the lightning rod is an almost certain protection and the cheapest protection a farmer can have.

Few fires are due to spontaneous combustion of improperly cured hay. The simplest remedy we can suggest is proper curing and good ventilation of the hayloft.

Guard against threshing time fires. In 1920 threshing machines destroyed over ninety thousand dollars worth of grain in stacks and caused considerable damage to buildings.

Clean up all weeds, dry grass, leaves and other combustible materials before threshing. Do not have all stacks in one setting and so subject to one fire.

The stacks should be good distance from the buildings, so that the latter will not be endangered by the prevailing winds in placing the stacks and engine, to reduce the liability of fire from flying sparks. Placing stacks near a railway track is courting a fire.

A plowed field, not less than six furrows, around each set of stacks will protect them from running fires.

Smoking on or around grain and hay stacks is a sure invitation to disaster. The engine smoke stack must be equipped with a good spark arrester, and the engine with a practical device to prevent dropping of fire from the fire box or ash pan.

At least two approved fire extinguishers of the soda-acid, tip-over type, two and one-half gallon capacity. The farmer should keep a few barrels of water nearby near the stacks for fire protection.

The engineer should keep all oily waste and rags in a covered, metal receptacle.

Foreign materials getting into the machine sometimes cause a spark and fire.

Growing of Wool Has Place on Farms

Madison.—Wool growing will come back to something like its old place among Wisconsin industries. If wool and junk are enabled to part company:

If a product of superior quality is produced; and

If systems of marketing are developed to narrow the wide margin between what the farmer receives and what the manufacturer pays for the wool.

This is the prediction made by H. L. Russell, head of the agricultural staff of the University of Wisconsin. After investigating ways in which Wisconsin clips have been, and are being marketed, Russell concludes that there is great need of improvement.

Closer acquaintance with both private and cooperative methods of marketing wool convinced him that, under present conditions, a local buyer takes out a margin of more than five cents a pound, if he is insisting upon an excessive share.

If the buyer is purchasing wool on a wide range the grower is not realizing a sufficient return, and if a dealer buys from one man at a higher price per pound than he pays another for the same grade, inequality will result.

If farmers join together and pool their product for sale they will have to do some of the same work that any other middleman agency performs.

If they can do this cheaper it is their right and privilege, but if they cannot operate as cheaply they will not prevail.

Wisconsin, according to Russell, produces annually almost three and one-half million pounds of wool. He regards the state, by reason of its fine climate, soil and people, as ideally adapted to the production of wool of unusual merit. Much has already been done through better breeding and careful handling to improve the value and improve the quality of the fiber fleece.

"Unfortunately this effort has not always been satisfactorily rewarded," declares Russell. "General dissatisfaction has resulted undoubtedly from a lack of efficient, permanent and dependable systems of marketing."

Grade and quality in the opinion of Russell, are big factors of affecting the price of wool. He believes the grower should be in a position to know what the market wants and how his wool will grade in that market.

"In the past this need has not been met by the regular method," said Russell recently, "and the public is not so much concerned as to who or what is doing the marketing as it is concerned about the efficiency of the system employed."

Unusual Exhibit of Rural School Work Planned for Fair

An unusual exhibit of rural school work is promised for Janesville's Fair and Live Stock exposition, Aug. 2, 10 and 11. The exhibit will be under the charge of O. D. Antisdel, with Miss Sadie C. Fox as judge.

The rural school presentation will differ from previous years in that a combined exhibit will feature at least 50 percent of the schools of a township to make a combined exhibit which is to include various classes of school work and other things made or grown by students. Exhibits shown in this class can not compete in other classes, but students in this contest are eligible to send in other things to be shown in the other contests.

A booth for each town exhibit is to be set against the wall in the educational building. This is to be trimmed by teachers in charge and the exhibit arranged on the walls, shelves and tables.

The classes in the rural school division will be open only to pupils of the Janesville county schools who have attended school during 1921-1922. All fruits and vegetables entered must be grown in 1922.

The exhibit will be divided into classes for children of the lower and upper grades and will include of the various work done by them during the year. Other classes in which a large number of entries are expected are the general school exhibit and the fine arts class.

Entries close at 4 p. m., Aug. 9.

COUNTY DENTISTS TO PICNIC AUG. 2

The Rock County Dental Society will have a picnic at Charley Bluff, Lake Koshkonong, Wednesday, Aug. 2. A lunch will be served at 1 p. m. and there will be swimming, baseball and stunts. A short business meeting will be held and officers for the coming year elected.

REPORT MAN ELECTED

Madison.—T. John Kelley, Beloit, was elected president of the Fraternal Reserve Association of Wisconsin, meeting here Thursday. Carl Heim, Milwaukee, was chosen vice president; Mrs. Mary Brown, La Crosse, secretary; and Mrs. Mary Summerfield, Superior, treasurer.

MISSION PERMANENT

Tokio.—The recent business mission to America and Europe, led by Dr. Tanaka, has been transformed into a permanent association under the name of "1922 Society." The new organization has in view the exchange of opinions among the members of the mission by meeting from time to time for the discussion of the country's business policy.

Local Railroad Men in Political Meeting Sunday

Members of the seven railroad brotherhoods and unions of Janesville will hold a joint political meeting in Eagles' hall at 2 p. m. Sunday.

A similar meeting will be held simultaneously in every railway center in Wisconsin, under the auspices of the Railway Workers' Progressive Political club, Milwaukee.

Bulletins distributed in Janesville railroad circles say that the 16 standard and recognized railway labor organizations have entered the political campaign of Wisconsin as a unit to "do their bit to re-elect Robert M. La Follette and the progressive republican candidates for state administrative offices."

"The elimination of Robert M. La Follette from the U. S. senate at this time would be a calamity not only to the transportation organizations, but to all labor organizations. Unless we can succeed in electing to office men or women whom we can depend upon to assist in the repealing of the Elkins-Cummings law of other vicious acts and look after the same manner, it will be beneficial to the producer and consumer, the protective feature of the transportation organizations in particular will be history."

Speakers here Sunday will be Vice President John Meeks of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and Vice President Seward of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

Members of the following local railway labor organizations and their women's auxiliaries, together with all "ladies interested in the maintenance of a home," are invited: Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, Order of Railway Conductors, Maintenance of Way, Machinists and Helpers' International Association, and the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks.

UNCLE SAM WILL CHECK UP DANCE HALLS IN STATE

Madison.—Dance halls throughout Wisconsin will be subjected to a check by field agents of the bureau of internal revenue, beginning Monday, to determine if they have been complying with the provisions of the federal tax laws. A. H. Wilkinson, collector of internal revenue, announced, "There is no indication of fraud," Mr. Wilkinson said, "but the department will inspect the books of the dance halls in the same manner as it has gone over the records of theaters and cabarets."

Alleged Heir to Fortune Arrested as Auto Ringster

Milwaukee.—Claiming to be heir to $75,000 and the youngest member of the graduating class of the University of Illinois last year, M. Frederick Houston, alias Mariah Hubbard, was arrested here Thursday on a charge of receiving stolen automobiles transported across a state line.

Henry H. Stroud, chief of the department of justice secret service in Milwaukee, who made the arrest, said that Houston has admitted receiving 15 stolen autos within the last three months. He was arrested on information from the Chicago police, from whom he escaped last Friday in Chicago.

Stroud said that Houston was wanted in two states for passing worthless checks and operating a confidence game. He is said to have jumped bail in Indianapolis, where he was held for passing worthless checks, and in Danville, Ill., where he was arrested on a similar charge.

Houston waived extradition when arrested and said that he would go back to Illinois willingly. Bail was fixed at $10,000.

POOL MUST RENDER DEFINITE SERVICE

Pool Can Help by Increasing Demand and Caring for Surplus.

BY LEWIS C. FRENCH.
More organization of farmers into a cooperative pool is not going to increase prices or assure better marketing just because a pool is formed. The farmer who holds the idea that by signing the Sapiro milk marketing contract he will at once achieve a milk marketing bonanza has got another idea coming—he'd better stay out. The pool must render service.

Organization can help the farmers dispose of their product at more of a profit through the fact they can reduce the cost of marketing or distribution by their united effort. Farmers will get more when they furnish a more direct supply from the farm to the consumer.

Must Render Service.
Consumer dollar for milk is not enough, especially under present prices. The difference between what the producer obtains and what is paid for distribution and handling is too great. A good cooperative organization can reduce the expenses of distribution and supplying the market and thereby help the producers and consumers materially.

But at any time when a pool attempts to force an artificial price the farmers are going to run into a "peck" of trouble and it will be a "quart" before they get through. An individual or pool cannot create an artificial market for milk or any other food product. The difficulty in the Chicago district is the immense surplus—that is too much milk produced for the amount consumed. This makes the market irregular with ups and downs and it has been mostly "downs" the last year.

In Chicago there is less than a third of a quart a day consumed by the residents. Only 2,000,000 pounds a day is used. Flooding Chicago with milk does not help the matter a bit. A flood of milk means low prices.

Increase Consumption.
The advantage of an intelligent pool is that the organized farmers can, through cooperative effort, increase the demand or consumption of milk. Chicago should use at least 4,000,000 pounds of milk a day. The situation demands that Chicago people be educated to the use of more milk and milk products. Simply trucking milk into Chicago does not make the people drink it as bottled milk or eat it as cheese or ice cream. As a matter of fact people would be better off drinking a quart a day and using more ice cream, butter and cheese. There is just one way to increase the demand and that is by good publicity work.

When the consumption is increased then the farmers have more chance to realize greater profit through the sale of fluid milk. As an individual the farmer will never have opportunity of doing this important work of creating a market—a greater demand. An organization can and will increase the market if the business heads know marketing. With the greatest road there is no over-production—it is under-consumption. Before producers will ever get what they should for milk in relation to its importance as a food, they will have to take action to increase the demand.

Organized farmers are in a better position to handle the surplus situation, the great draw-back of the dairy business. Consumption goes up and down according to the seasons and the prices. The surplus must be taken care of somehow for new milk is perishable. Unsold milk demands quick action.

If the marketing company has ice cream mix, butter and can factories, a competent manager can divert the surplus fluid milk into the various other channels. The whole proposition is based on the idea of keeping a damaging surplus of fluid milk off the market.

Control of Supply.
Milk cannot be dumped into the lake without some one having to pay the bill. It is for this reason that farmers to pool a small fraction for a long time campaign to increase the use of milk among consumers.

The present marketing company has facilities for handling the surplus and manufacturing it into milk products.

In the event the new pool is formed, the committee of nine should not stop at 5,000 signers. They should make at least 10 per cent of the producers supply to the Chicago district and adopt some rigid methods to stop the flood of outside milk coming in to break the market. This can be done by dealer contracts but, first, the pool must have sufficient power over the supply to enforce their demands. The farmers in northern Wisconsin, southern Illinois or Indiana will never have a bit of pity on the producers around Chicago. If the price is over boosted to such a point that it will pay them to ship to Chicago, and if they do for many months—it is "good night" pool.

However all angles of the dairy market situation has been studied out by the committee. Men like C. V. Gregory know marketing and they know farming. They want to put in to effect the needed and attempt to strengthen the dairy market but first the committee of nine must have the contract signers. There are prospects that Rock county will be "first" in the Chicago dairy district with 1,500 signers at the end of the county campaign.
